

BASICS OF THE INTERSECTION OF TRAUMA, NEURODIVERSITY AND GENDER DIVERSITY IN YOUTH: 4 PART SERIES

This FREE training is open to any professionals who work with youth, 0-25, who identify as neurodivergent (including Autism Spectrum Disorder and developmental disabilities), and/or gender diverse and who have experienced trauma. We will be discussing the "Triple Intersection". This training will offer an overview of the intersection and provide some tips for working with individuals who identify in this population.

This first training in February is a general overview of the topic. We invite you to attend all 4 parts (see page 2).

After taking the basic overview, participants are invited to learn more about each of the topics, exploring their own intersections and biases. The last training in the series uses case studies to solidify learning.

Each session has been approved for (2) Category A Continuing Education Credits by the National Association of Social Workers, NH Chapter.

Registration is all on the same Zoom page. If you took some previously, you can register for the ones you missed. When you register you can pick which you want to attend.

TRAUMA AND NEURODIVERSITY

This two hour training will focus on working with autistic youth, youth with IDD and those who identify as neurodivergent. Presenters will spend time discussing the increased risk for trauma that these youth face and how to support these youth in a practical way. Participants will have time to practice skills such as the “Window of Tolerance”.

March 21, 2025 9- 11 AM EST

TRAUMA AND GENDER DIVERSITY

This two hour training will focus on understanding the spectrum of gender diversity and the higher risk of trauma experiences for youth who identify as gender diverse. Participants will spend time discussing the unique needs of youth who are transgender or gender diverse and how to support them across settings. Participants will practice skills such as the “Window of Tolerance”.

May 5, 2025 9- 11 AM EST

CASE STUDIES

This two hour training will bring together learning from the 3 hour Triple Intersection training and the two focused trainings on gender and neurodiversity. Presenters will use case examples that will promote empathy, curiosity, and application of the learning. Participants will have the opportunity to work in small groups to discuss ways that this increased knowledge is applicable to example cases.
